

Second time around for art exhibition

The second Elloughton-cum-Brough Parish Council sponsored Art & Photography Exhibition was held on the weekend of 3rd - 5th October. The event followed up the success of last year, and took place in the main hall at Brough Community Centre, just too late to meet our press deadline for this issue. A review of the exhibition, along with results of the public ballot for the most popular entry can be seen on the Brough Community Centre web site at www.broughcommunitycentre.co.uk.

It's been a busy summer for our youngsters!

There will be refreshments in the form of mince pies and sherry. Tickets are £5 and are available from the Parish Council on 665600. Numbers are limited so book early to avoid disappointment.

First UK Hawk takes to the skies from Brough

The first production Hawk Advanced Jet Trainer for the UK MoD has taken to the skies on its maiden flight from BAE Systems' Brough site.

The aircraft, designated RT003, took off from Brough for the first time on Monday 4th August, witnessed by hundreds of proud employees from BAE Systems. Several groups of sightseers had strategically positioned themselves along the Humber bank and the footpath alongside the airfield. They watched the series of last minute safety checks before the brand new aircraft sped down the runway amidst a deafening roar from its Rolls-Royce engine. Once airborne, the Hawk did a circuit of the BAE Systems site before departing.

RT003 is the first of 26 production Hawk AJTs (Mk128) purchased by the UK MoD being manufactured by BAE Systems at Brough. Two development Hawk AJTs (Mk128) already produced by BAE Systems under the design and development contract signed with the UK MoD in 2004 are now in the final phase of their flight development programme at BAE Systems Warton. These will be 'productionised' next year, making up the total fleet of 28.

Tony Arksey, Brough Site and Services

Director, BAE Systems said, "The first flight of RT003 from Brough is a clear demonstration of the full capability of the Hawk team to design, develop, manufacture and fly fast jet aircraft. The flight marks a significant step forward on the UK AJT (Mk 128) programme which will see a further 25 production aircraft manufactured and flown out of the Brough facility."

The aircraft will now complete its production flight acceptance test programme, painting and customer acceptance before being delivered to the UK MoD later in the year.

Children's Centre opens its doors

East Riding Children's Centre Brough held a family fun day on Saturday 6th September to mark its official opening.

The theme for the opening was "When I grow up I want to be..." and children, parents and carers were able to participate in a number of activities, including circus workshops, smoothie-making sessions, face painting, plate making activities and a playbus. A teddy bears' picnic was held between 11.30 and noon.

There were information stalls from a range of local service providers and voluntary groups including the police, the health visiting team, Jobcentre plus, Families Information Service Hub (FISH), Bosom Buddies and many more.

The Children's Centre is the tenth to open in the East Riding, and is based on the same site as Brough Primary School. The centre provides support to families with children under five including information about local childcare and early years education, health services, family support and outreach, job and training opportunities for parents, plus a range of other activities in response to locally identified need.

Each children's centre has its own programme of activities for pre-school children, and some groups can also accommodate older brothers and sisters.

For more information about the activities and events offered call Caroline Mertens on 669474.

Heartfelt thank you to anonymous resident

Shopper Lesley Hill lost her purse while out in Brough with her husband Antony in October last year. Despite retracing their steps the purse could not be found. Although there had only been a small amount of money in the purse, Lesley was upset as it contained a picture of her late father.

The couple were delighted when some months later a police officer knocked at their door and handed over the purse, complete with money, cards and photograph.

Mr Hill told the Petuaria Press that the purse had been posted through the letterbox at the new police building on Welton Road, so there was no record of the finder. "Lesley and I would like to thank that person" he said. "My wife was so happy to have the photograph back!"

Walk-in Flu clinics

Patients registered with the Brough and South Cave Medical Practice who are over 65, or in an at risk group, are invited to attend a walk-in Flu clinic. If you missed the first two at the beginning of the month turn up at South Cave Surgery on Wednesday 15th October or Brough Surgery on Thursday 16th October between 2.30 and 5.30pm. No appointment is required.

Brough will bloom again!

Brough In Bloom held a fund raising event at the Village Hall on Saturday 13th September. The event included, tombolas, a treasure hunt, tea and cakes and a mini gardens competition. Monies raised will be used to buy plants and planting materials for the village's entry in next Spring's Yorkshire In Bloom competition.

Coleen Gill (L) of Brough In Bloom with Kay Mitchell (R) and her scarecrow, made for the event.

Services join forces

A Services Partnership Day will be held in Brough on 20th October between 10 and 4pm, in the Hunter Road/Beech Road area.

The Community Crime Prevention Bus will be there, together with representatives from the Fire and Ambulance Services as well as the Police Safer Communities organisation. Crime and fire prevention information will be available and security etching will be taking place.

PCSO Jessica Watt's said, "Car crime has shown an increase in our community in recent months, although it is now dropping off again. We would just like to remind people not to leave valuables in their car as most of these crimes are carried out by opportunists."

The Haunted Way

Brough author Neil Wesson's latest novel The Haunted Way is now available to buy from Lulu.com. The story follows three friends walking from Brough to Sutton-on-Hull through several of the villages en route.

Mosaic

This fictionalised account of a forgotten crime takes the reader back to 1941 when a series of mosaics was discovered at the site of a lost Roman villa outside Brough, and their theft seven years later in 1948. The story follows the subsequent investigation and has already attracted enthusiastic reviews from readers. Author Clive Ashman appeared at the Brough Community Centre for the official launch of Mosaic: The Pavement that Walked on Tuesday 23rd September, too late for full coverage in this issue of Petuaria Press.

Lifestyle 2008

Lifestyle is celebrating its 20th anniversary this year, and as usual our young people have been busy over the Summer, getting stuck into a number of projects which benefit the community. Here are some of this year's participants.

The Awesome Explorers have been busy over the summer holidays, holding a car wash, a bun and toy sale, litter picking and painting the scout hut to get rid of graffiti. In total they raised £160 towards the upkeep of the scout hut. Pictured from left to right with paint rollers in hand are Matthew Grice, Sam Chapple, Matthew Shepherd and Jack Dockerty.

Lifestyle Loonies James Cowen, Daniel Heron, Matthew Jones, Aneil Sanghera and Oliver Thane successfully advertised their cardboard recycling services by dropping leaflets to over 500 houses in the area. They set up a once weekly collection service, but quickly had to increase it to two collections a week to meet the demand. They have secured two temporary bins where people can deposit cardboard. The bins, donated by Biffa, are situated at The Triton Inn, Brantingham, and The Ferry Inn, Brough.

Angelz & Devilz spent their summer holidays working hard to raise money to buy a bench for the local community to enjoy. They also made a donation to Dove House Hospice. The team collected unwanted goods from family and friends, which they then sold at North Cave car boot sale. The girls were up at 5.30am on the big day to set up their stall. The team also helped out at Brough Manor Care Home where they spent evenings reading and talking to residents, and listening to their life experiences. The girls are pictured below, manning their stall at the car boot sale. From left to right are Natasha Spink, Chloe Lammiman, Louise York, Jessica Mumby, and Victoria Hudson.

5 Tigers have been raising money to buy a bench for the community. Its location has yet to be decided. James Wilkinson, James Sidwell, Daniel Sidwell, Angela Pritchard and James McGahey are pictured below at their very popular bun sale. Together with their other money raising efforts they have collected a total of £465 towards the project.

ME and the Funky Four are Rachel and Alex King (rear L and R) and Alison and Stephanie Hebden (front L and R). They have raised money for AYME, the Association for Young people with Myalgic Encephalopathy, to put together information support packs for secondary schools in East Yorkshire.

The group made and sold sock monkeys as part of the BP sponsored Enterprise Challenge.

The Ferocious Four, from left to right Dylan King, Jack Goodman, Oliver Philip and Alex Acaster, took on the Crimebuster Challenge. In association with the British Transport Police and HANWAG (Humberside Association of Neighbourhood Watch Groups) they distributed crime prevention literature at Brough railway station, and held a display at Brough Community Centre giving away crime prevention packs to visitors. They also delivered the packs to homes in their neighbourhood and to a selection of over 55s housing in the village.

Brough Gadgets raised a staggering £832.40 for Brough Voluntary Action who provide practical help to the community, such as transport, shopping and collecting pensions. The team undertook various activities including bag packing at Morrisons, removing graffiti, litter picking and cleaning up at Welton stables. Pictured atop a huge pile of horse manure are Charlie Thane, Alex Almond, Matthew Britchford, Ben Briggs and James Roos.

A scarecrow festival organised by Two's Company raised funds to buy toys for Hull Royal Infirmary's children's ward. The display of over 40 scarecrows ran from Main Street, Elloughton to Elloughton Road in Brough, linking the villages together. The duo sold maps of the route.

School of rock

South Hunsley was one of over 300 schools taking part in Rock Challenge UK – a series of performing arts events promoting healthy life choices. School teams pick their own theme and put together a five to eight minute performance. The South Hunsley entry won awards for Best Hair and Makeup Design, Best Stage Crew and the Arco Award for Best Set Design and Staging.

An evening of indulgence

Friends Of Brough School held a beauty evening at Brantingham Park, raising a whopping £2100 towards buying laptops for the school.

Both floors at Brantingham Park were packed with stalls ranging from jewellery to handbags to nail salons. Crave Boutique of Hessle held a catwalk show and the home of Ionians was packed with hundreds of women.

Organiser Linda Dockerty

said, "This type of event takes a lot of organisation and we are always grateful for any help. We are hoping to run a similar event again next year, and of course there is always our annual ball!" If you would like to join the committee please contact Linda on 665780.

Gardeners' craft reaps rewards

Bob and Shirley Craft are the winners of this year's Brough in Bloom Front Garden Of The Year competition. Bob does most of the actual gardening, while Shirley concentrates on design. Bob said, "It's rewarding to know that my efforts have been acknowledged." He also commented on how surprised he is by the knock-on effect. "It encourages others to do their gardens as well," he observed.

Bob and Shirley Craft receive the shield from Tony Galbraith, chairman of the Village Environment Committee, in their beautifully kept front garden in Spindlewood.

Social enterprise is icing on the cake

Sugar 'n' Spice And All Things Nice is a social enterprise which specialises in teaching sugar craft and cake decorating skills. The company is looking for volunteers to work with children and families in a training environment.

Organiser Judith Newlove said, "The emphasis is on having fun, learning some basic sugar craft, increasing confidence and self esteem which brings families and communities together."

Income is generated through the sale of baked and decorated cakes. Sugar 'n'
